Study Abroad in Music and Music Technology

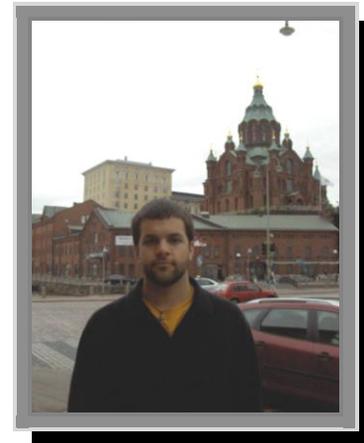

“Studying music in a foreign setting enhances the student’s awareness of the importance of music in other cultures. Whether studying in Austria, Spain, South Africa or Finland, students become further aware that music is the universal language which facilitates communication between people of different countries. They meet many musicians and music students from many places on the globe and bring that experience back with them. It’s truly life changing.”

Richard Burchard, Music Department

Study Abroad as a Music or Music Technology Major and . . .

- Learn about the music of another country
- Observe different musical techniques
- Attend international concerts
- Learn about significant global issues
- Visit important international music sites
- Prepare yourself for competitive graduate programs
- Build your résumé by demonstrating your independence, flexibility, and willingness to take on new challenges

“I love the city. It is very beautiful: there are numerous parks, some amazing architecture, and there’s a lot to do! I have had a great time here... I have learned so much about myself and about the world... even about things I did not expect.”

Sean Campbell, Music Technology Major, Semester Abroad, University of Helsinki, Finland

Plan ahead . . .

As Music major, you can study abroad as a sophomore, junior or senior. There are many opportunities for elective credits in the major which gives you the flexibility to study abroad and make progress towards your degree. Discuss study abroad options with your Academic Advisor and Faculty Liaison.

- Begin planning at least a year in advance of your study abroad program. Plan to meet with the Study Abroad Advisor and talk with faculty and students who have studied or taught abroad. It is never too early to start planning!
- Set some goals. There are many partners and programs abroad that offer Music and Music Technology courses. The best one for you depends on what you plan to gain from your experience.
- Prioritize your goals. See the IPO handout on this subject and consider your long-term academic and professional goals, as well as your on-campus degree requirements.
- With proper planning, study abroad can help you prepare for the next step after college whether it is graduate school or starting a career.
- Start saving now! Consider saving for your time abroad when setting your spending priorities today.

Can I afford it?

YES! Now is the most cost-effective time in your life to spend an extended period of time abroad. Most undergraduate students do not have to balance a job, mortgage, family and car payments when saving for study abroad.

- Studying abroad for a semester on exchange will cost about the same as attending Bellarmine and living on campus.
- For exchange programs, financial aid and scholarships can be applied toward your semester or academic year abroad.
- There are many short-term programs with a wide range of prices to accommodate various student budgets.
- Bellarmine also offers scholarships for study abroad! For more information visit:

“Go in ready to be challenged and to take on many new things, but do so with excited anticipation that will allow you to fully appreciate your experience and come back changed for the better.”

Caroline Petrik, Music Performance Major, semester abroad in Australia & KIIS Salzburg Summer Program

Study Abroad Information Meetings

Not sure how to start? There are general information meetings held weekly in the fall. See the BU student calendar or contact the IPO for dates.

The Study Abroad Fair

This annual fall event held in September is a great place to talk to program providers and students who have studied around the world on Bellarmine’s programs. It is a wonderful time to ask returned students about their experiences abroad.

What happens next?

Visit the International Programs Office in Miles Hall Suite 149 to learn more about the program and application deadlines. Talk with your Academic Advisor and the Faculty Liaison for study abroad information regarding your major. Learn what courses you may take abroad, and plan ahead. Research the country and site where you wish to study. Find out as much as you can about your host site.

When should I go?

Summer programs are available to all students starting the summer after freshman year. Depending on a student’s major and minor, certain times may be better than others for long-term study abroad. See below for tips on deciding when you should go.

Freshman

The best time to start planning for study abroad is your freshman year. If you hope to have two international experiences, it is a great idea to do a summer program after freshman year and then plan for a semester or year abroad junior year.

Sophomores

There are limited semester sites available for sophomores. However, mature applicants typically do not have trouble finding an appropriate site for study. The application to study abroad sophomore year is due in the fall of freshman year. Please work closely with the Study Abroad Advisor and your Academic Advisor to see what plan is best for you.

Juniors

Most Bellarmine students study abroad during their junior year. At this point, you may be more focused on upper division courses and electives. See the descriptions on the next page for program suggestions.

Seniors

Students may still study abroad during the fall semester of senior year, although the location should be selected carefully to ensure that they may take specific classes needed for graduation. They should be sure to choose a site which matches Bellarmine’s calendar in order to be back in time to start the spring semester at BU.

How do I select a program?

Bellarmino has more than 150 international program sites. When selecting a program, consider both your geographic interests and academic goals. Use this sheet, talk with your advisor, talk to past participants of study abroad programs, and work with the IPO to identify the best program for you. These highlighted programs offer excellent options for you to earn credit in your major; however, depending on your flexibility, you may also want to explore other programs BU offers. As the Music Department and the IPO work together, specific recommended programs may change. Check with the Study Abroad Advisor for the latest information.

Can I fulfill graduation requirements?

General Education: General education credits may be fulfilled on almost all study abroad programs. Some excellent courses to take abroad include: Fine Art requirement, Social Science requirement and the IDC 301 Trans-cultural Experience requirement. Occasional approval is granted for the Theology elective requirement.

Major requirements: Music and music technology courses are offered at several partner universities. You will want to consider enhancing your BU degree by taking courses for your major that are not offered at BU. Some institutions have more course options than others and they are listed on this page. With advance planning, you will be able to earn credits towards your major.

Minor requirements: Depending on your minor, you may also be able to take courses to fulfill those requirements abroad. Please consult with the Department Chair.

Study Music for a semester or an academic year at partner universities abroad

The list on this page and the next contains links to view course catalogs and/or titles of Music and Music Technology courses offered at BU partner universities abroad. Many links provide access to a course description. You should review this list with your Academic Advisor to see which institution will provide you with the courses you need. If necessary, you will also want to discuss substitutions or waivers with the Department Chair.
