

Course Description

Where's the Evidence? Using Research to Examine End-of-Life Care on Both Sides of the Pond

UG: NURS 312 or IDC 301
G:Nurs 624 or Nurs 633
3 credit hours

What can we learn about end-of-life care from our British colleagues? Visit the world famous Cochrane Collaboration at Oxford to learn how to evaluate current best evidence in making decisions about end-of-life care. Visit St. Christopher's Hospice, where Dame Cicely Saunders pioneered the modern hospice movement with her unique foundational belief: "you matter to the last moment of your life...we will help you, not only to die peacefully but to live until you die". Through careful examination of evidence, collaboration with British colleagues, and learning gained from world-renowned palliative care centers, learn to identify best directions for guiding end-of-life care.

Program Overview

All roads may lead to Rome, but achievements in almost every field of human endeavor find their point of origin in this city, the capital of what was once the largest empire in the world, London. By making use of university housing and facilities at the Hampstead campus of the University of London's King's College, CCSA is able to offer a rich program that combines classroom and course specific field trips activities, while leaving students free to explore parts of England by rail. This course runs for two weeks. If a student wants to take a second course in the four-week London program, the student may do so at an additional cost.

Accommodations & Meals

- * Participants reside in dormitories of the Hampstead Campus of King's College.
- * The majority of rooms are singles, but double occupancy is common in some of the facilities.
- * Continental breakfast provided daily
- * Lunch on class days (Monday & Wednesday) and dinner on weekdays (Monday through Thursday) provided.
