"I hope that I keep searching inside myself in order to become a better person for society. Challenging myself to become more knowledgeable, to use critical literacy in the classroom, and to start acting out for the community is what has evolved from this trip." Lara Donnelly, Elementary and Special Education Major,

Study Abroad in Education

"Studying abroad pushes a student to get out of his or her comfort zone to experience another culture, language, environment, and education system. It teaches students to appreciate difference and diversity firsthand, and enables them to recognize and challenge assumptions and stereotypes they may have held about others. In our globalized market, employers increasingly want to hire graduates who have studied abroad—noting their abilities to creatively problem solve in unfamiliar situations and adaptability within culturally diverse environments. Studying abroad has undoubtedly made me a more effective educator and better-informed citizen."

Dr. Kristin Cook, Chair of Undergraduate Programs in Education

Study Abroad as an Education Major and . . .

- Observe different methods of teaching
- Learn about the academic system of another country
- Explore diverse areas in the field such as environmental education
- Understand current global issues in education
- Experience world events through the perspective of another culture
- Acquire knowledge of different countries to share and develop in the classroom
- Enhance your portfolio by demonstrating your independence, flexibility, and willingness to take on new challenges and experiences

Jacqueline Brosky, Alexis Higgs, and Sarah Hare, Education Majors, Roehampton Summer School, London, England

Plan ahead . . .

As an Education major, you will want to carefully plan for your study abroad experience. Spring of sophomore year is the best time to study abroad for one semester. Students can also complete part of their Student Teaching abroad during the Fall of their senior year. It is STRONGLY recommended that education majors meet with their Academic Advisor and the Faculty Liaison during the freshman year.

- Begin planning at least a year in advance of your study abroad program. Meet with the Study Abroad Advisor and talk with faculty and students who have studied or taught abroad. It is never too early to start planning!
- If you are interested in a particular area of education, inform the Study Abroad Coordinator and your Faculty Liaison in your meetings so that they may help you find the best program based on your needs.
- Set some goals. There are many partners and programs abroad that offer education courses. Make sure to consider your long-term academic and professional goals. The best program for you will depend on what you hope to gain from your experience and what your post-graduate plans may be.
- Start saving now! Consider saving for your time abroad when setting your spending priorities today.
- With proper planning, study abroad can help you prepare for the next step after college whether it is pursuing a higher degree or starting a career in the field of Education.

Can I afford it?

YES! Now is the most cost-effective time in your life to spend an extended period of time abroad. Most undergraduate students do not have to balance a job, mortgage, family and car payments when saving for study abroad.

- Studying abroad for a semester on exchange will cost about the same as attending Bellarmine and living on campus.
- For exchange programs, financial aid and scholarships can be applied toward your semester or academic year abroad.
- There are many short-term programs with a wide range of prices to accommodate various student budgets.
- Bellarmine also offers scholarships for study abroad! For more information, visit:

When should I go?

Summer programs are available to ALL students starting the summer after freshman year. Depending on a student's major and minor, certain times may be better than others for long-term study abroad. See below for tips on deciding when you should go.

Freshman

The best time to start planning for study abroad is your freshman year. If you hope to have two international experiences, it is a great idea to do a winter program during or a summer program after freshman year and then plan for an additional experience later.

Sophomores

The application to study abroad sophomore year is due in the fall of freshman year. As an education major, spring of sophomore year is the only time to spend a semester abroad. Please work closely with the Study Abroad Advisor and your Faculty Liaison to see what plan is best for you. Students may also choose to do a summer or winter break program sophomore year.

Juniors

For education majors, it is not possible to spend a semester abroad junior year. If you would like to study abroad at this time, you should plan for a winter or summer break program.

Seniors

Senior year is a great time for education majors to have a learning abroad experience—as a student teacher! Students can complete part or all of their Student Teaching abroad during the fall semester of their senior year. Winter study abroad is also an option. Students will need to work closely with the OSAIL, the Education department.

How do I select a program?

Bellarmino has more than 150 international program sites. When selecting a program that will work best for you, consider your geographic interests and academic goals. Use this sheet, talk with your advisor, talk to past participants of study abroad programs, and work with the OSAIL to identify the best program for you. These highlighted programs offer excellent options for you to earn credit in your major; however, depending on your flexibility, you may also want to explore other Bellarmino partners and programs. As the School of Education and the OSAIL work together, specific recommended programs may change. Check with the Study Abroad Coordinator for the latest information.

Can I fulfill graduation requirements?

Can I fulfill graduation requirements?

General Education: General education credits can be fulfilled on almost all study abroad programs. Some excellent courses to take abroad include: Fine Art requirement, English Literature requirement, Social Science requirement, and the IDC 301 Trans-cultural Experience requirement. There are always options for this course in the semester programs as well as summer and winter programs. Occasionally approval is granted for the Theology elective requirement.

Major requirements: Education courses are offered in English at many of our partner universities. Some institutions have a broader selection than others and they are listed on this page. With advance planning, you may be able to earn credits for your education major. If possible, plan on taking some elective credits in education that are not offered on campus so that you may enhance courses you have taken at BU.

Minor requirements: Depending on your minor, you may also be able to take courses to fulfill those requirements abroad. Please consult with the Department Chair.

Study Education for a semester or an academic year at partner universities abroad!

The list on this page contains links to view course catalogs and/or titles of education courses offered at BU bilateral partner universities abroad. Some links provide access to a course description. You should review this list with your advisor to see which institution will provide you with the courses you need. If necessary, you will also want to discuss substitutions or waivers with the Department Chair. If you choose not to take Education classes abroad, you may fulfill your semester abroad with General Education requirements. Please consult the Faculty Liaison or OSAIL for more information.

“For the first time in my life, an educative experience has forced me to find meaning and answers to questions that were not just hand-fed to me..... I happen to believe that liberation in a classroom is found in making a classroom a democratic place. Thank you all for making this a democratic class and allowing and even pushing us to own the experience in Jamaica.” Delana Hill, Elementary and Special Education Major, Jamaica Service Program
