

Integrating Sources with the Sandwich Method

 Introduce your source with a strong verb.	Agrees Argues Asserts Claims Insists Observes Suggests Acknowledges Admires Endorses Praises Complains Denies Questions Rejects
	Exact words of a source are put in quotation marks. Paraphrases only use quotes around words unique to the source. Paranetical citation follows.
 Follow-up by explaining the relevance to your main point.	X's analysis proves... X's claim shows the importance of... The essence of X's argument is that... X's perspective shows... X's point is similar to Y's/my point in that... X's argument closely relates to... In other words... In sum... Basically the point is....

Tips for paraphrasing:

- Suspend your own beliefs for a time and put yourself in the position of the author whose passage you are paraphrasing, so as not to misrepresent their message.
- Use your own words and sentence structure.
- Always put quotes around any words or phrases that are unique to the source.
- Always include in-text citation for paraphrases, which includes the author's last name and page number, just like a quote.
