Study Abroad in Nursing & the Health Sciences

“The opportunity for students in nursing and the health sciences to engage in experiential learning throughout the world and observe and interact with a wide range of healthcare delivery models provides an unparalleled learning experience. Through the study abroad options in the Lansing School, students can come to a deeper appreciation for the cultural and global influences on health, wellness, chronic and acute disease, disabilities, and disparities. Beyond augmenting one’s understanding of professional roles and knowledge of healthcare, learning abroad is invaluable in developing a student’s world view and awareness of many cultures.”

Mark R. Wiegand, PT, PhD, Dean, Lansing School of Nursing & Health Sciences

Study Abroad as a Nursing or Health Sciences major and. . .

- Gain international perspectives in the field
- Explore new ways of practicing nursing and physical therapy
- Understanding global scientific issues
- Experience research methods in another country
- See world events through the perspective of another culture
- Build your résumé by demonstrating your independence, flexibility, and willingness to take on new challenges
- Acquire skills to succeed in research, medical school or other post-graduate opportunities

“Seeing the world through studying abroad has been one of the best experiences I think I could have ever done. It has been such a challenging and eye opening experience..... I have learned so much about the differences between the US and other countries healthcare systems. I have had a blast getting to know so many people from all over the world and learning many new things about myself. I would encourage anyone to study abroad and learn from a different perspective.”

Kelly Shoulders, Nursing Student, Semester Abroad, Edith Cowan University, Australia

Plan ahead . . .

All nursing and health science students can easily incorporate a summer or winter study program while a student at Bellarmine. Most students chose to take general education courses in these programs. For students who wish to spend a semester abroad they will need to carefully plan for the experience. The best time for physical therapy students to spend a semester abroad is spring of sophomore year; for nursing students the best time is spring of junior year or fall of senior year (depending on the student’s schedule. Other health science majors may have limited semester options.

- Begin planning at least a year in advance of your study abroad program. It is never too early to start planning!
- Set some goals. There are many partners and programs abroad that offer health science courses. The best one for you depends on what you plan to gain from your experience.
- Prioritize your goals. See the IPO handout on this subject and consider your long-term academic and professional goals, as well as your on-campus degree requirements.
- With proper planning, study abroad can help you prepare for the next step after college whether it is graduate school or starting a career in health sciences.
- Start saving now! Consider saving for your time abroad when setting your spending priorities now.

Can I afford it?

YES! Now is the most cost-effective time in your life to spend an extended period of time abroad. Most undergraduate students do not have to balance a job, mortgage, family and car payments when saving for study abroad.

- Studying abroad for a semester on exchange will cost about the same as attending Bellarmine and living on campus.
- For exchange programs, financial aid and scholarships can be applied toward your semester or academic year abroad.
- There are many short-term programs with a wide range of prices to accommodate various student budgets.
- Bellarmine also offers scholarships for study abroad! For more information visit:

What happens next?

Visit the International Programs Office in Miles Hall Suite 149 to learn more about the program and application deadlines. Talk with your Academic Advisor and the Faculty Liaison for study abroad information regarding your major. Learn what courses you will be able to take abroad, and plan ahead. Research the country and site where you wish to study. Find out as much as you can about your host site.

When should I go?

Summer programs are available to all students starting the summer after freshman year. Depending on a student's major and minor, certain times may be better than others for long-term study abroad. See below for tips on deciding when you should go.

Freshman

The best time to start planning for study abroad is your freshman year. If you hope to have two international experiences, it is a great idea to do a summer program after freshman year and then plan for a semester or year abroad junior year.

Sophomores

There are limited semester sites available for sophomores. For exercise science and pre-PT majors, the most appropriate time to do semester study is spring of sophomore year. The application to study abroad sophomore year is due in the fall of freshman year. Please work closely with the Study Abroad Advisor and your Academic Advisor to see what plan is best for you.

Juniors

Nursing and health science students who wish to study abroad junior year will want to explore summer and winter program options. In some instances semester study may be possible at this time; students will need to consult with their advisor to see if this is a possibility for them. For nursing students, spring of Junior year may be possible. Students should complete the application during the fall of their sophomore year.

Seniors

Nursing students who wish to spend a semester abroad should do so during the fall semester of their senior year. Students should complete the application during the fall of their junior year.

How do I select a program?

Bellarmino has more than 150 international program sites. When selecting a program that will work best for you, consider your geographic interests and academic goals. Use this sheet, talk with your advisor, talk to past participants of study abroad programs, and work with the IPO to identify the best program for you. These highlighted programs offer excellent options for you to earn credit in your major; however, depending on your flexibility, you may also want to explore other BU sites and programs. As the Nursing & Health Sciences departments and the IPO work together, specific recommended programs may change. Check with the Study Abroad Coordinator for the latest information.

Can I fulfill graduation requirements?

General Education: General education credits can be fulfilled on almost all study abroad programs. Some excellent courses to take abroad include: Fine Art requirement, English Literature requirement, Social Science requirement and the IDC 301 Trans-cultural Experience requirement. There are always options for this course in the semester programs as well as in the summer and winter programs. Occasionally approval is granted for the Theology elective requirement.

Major requirements: Exercise science, nursing and physical therapy courses are offered in English at several of our partner universities. Some institutions have a broader selection than others and they are listed on this page. With advance planning, you may be able to earn credits for your major. If possible, plan on taking general education courses or elective credits in your major that are not offered here so that you can enhance courses you have taken at BU.

Minor requirements: Depending on your minor, you may also be able to take courses to fulfill these requirements abroad. Please consult with the Department Chair.

Study for a semester or an academic year at partner universities abroad

The links on this page are available for you to view course catalogs and/or titles courses offered at BU partner universities abroad. Most links provide access to a course description. You should review this with your advisor to see which institution will provide you with the courses you need. If necessary, you will also want to discuss substitutions or waivers with the department chair. For most sites, you can access course catalogs for these institutions online or in the IPO resource room.

There are additional sites where you can take general education courses, courses for your minor or electives. Please consult with the IPO as to which site would be best for your needs.

Ashley Heister, Physical Therapy Student, Semester Abroad, Curtin University, Australia

“Studying abroad was an amazing experience for me. Living with people from all around the world was a great experience in and of itself. I learned so much from my suitemates. They helped me learn about their cultures, about my culture and myself. I feel so privileged to have these memories as well as the many lessons that came along.”

Short Term Program Options

For students interested in spending a summer or winter break abroad there are many excellent options. Students can choose to do major requirements, general education or elective courses. The course selection for summer and winter break programs will vary from year to year.

International Internships and Service

In addition to the summer/winter options listed on this page, there are many international internship and service learning opportunities available. Please consult the IPO for more information on these programs.

For Doctor of Physical Therapy students, there are opportunities to conduct part of your clinicals abroad in Italy through EduGlobal Associates (<http://www.eduglobalassociates.com/>). Contact Dr. Whitney Ensor (aensor@bellarmine.edu) for more information.

“I had a wonderful adventure in the villages and learned a vast amount about the people and their culture. The clinics gave me insight about the challenges the people of Romania face when trying to access healthcare. From the experience I have gained a greater appreciation of the people in the world...”
